

NEW EXALTED RULER FOR THE GRAND LODGE

Elks in Session at Dallas
Chose Colorado Man
for Head of Order

NEXT MEET LOS ANGELES

Thirty-Five Thousand People Participate in Barbecue—Many
New Members Added.

Dallas, Tex., July 15.—Grand Exalted Ruler Rush L. Holland, Colorado Springs, Colo.
Grand Esteemed Leading Knight, John G. Shea, Hartford, Conn.
Grand Esteemed Loyal Knight, T. M. MacElwee, Fort Worth.
Grand Esteemed Lecturing Knight, Warren G. Sayre, Wabash, Ind.
Grand Treasurer, Edward Leach, New York.
Grand Tyler, Chas. L. Decker, Minnesota.
Grand Trustee, Alfred T. Holley, Hackensack, N. J.
Grand Secretary, Fred C. Robinson, Dubuque, Fla.
Grand Inner Guard, A. M. Taylor, St. Augustine, Fla.
Next convention city, Los Angeles, Cal.

This is the result of Tuesday's session of the national convention of the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks. The officers were elected by acclamation, with the exception of the grand loyal knight, Charles E. Sweet of Dowagiac, Mich., being defeated by A. M. McElwee of Fort Worth, Tex., and for grand inner guard, A. M. Taylor of St. Augustine, Fla., winning from Thomas G. Phalen of Memphis, Tenn., and J. J. Groves of Portchester, N. Y.

The selection of the 1909 convention city was hotly contested by Los Angeles and Detroit, the former winning by a fair sized majority.
Every Elk and every friend of every Elk who cared to, participated in the barbecue. Thirty-five thousand were served with good things to eat and drink, it is estimated.

The annual report of the grand exalted ruler, John K. Tener of Charleston, Pa., shows that during the year lodges received by affiliations or initiation 46,435 members; suspended or expelled 264; stricken from rolls for non-payment of dues, $205; demitted, $368; deceased 2718.

Forty-four new lodges have been added to the list, with an increase of 29,789 in membership, making the total number of lodges to date 1127, with a total membership of 284,321.

The report shows that 98 members of the grand lodge have died since the Philadelphia meeting.

Grand Treasurer Edward Leach's report, under date of June 10, shows a balance on hand of $100,529.83. Total receipts were $225,015.84, with disbursements of $124,480.99.

SALOME

GERTRUDE HOFFMAN SHOWS
THE FIRST NIGHTERS A FEW THINGS.

Dispenses With Fashions, Shoes, and Stockings and Costume is Extremely Airy.

New York, July 15.—Salome with the same dearth of clothes that created the original furore among King Heron's cronies has been wafted into New York on the top of a record breaking heat wave. Though the oriental lady's entire costume might have been packed in a coin purse, sweltering Manhattan never turned a hair, and even Anthony Comstock failed to object to the briefest feminine costume on record since the fig leaf became passe.

On Hammerstein's roof garden, this week, Miss Gertrude Hoffman is presenting her imitation of the dance with which Maud Allen is wrecking homes and debating societies in England. The initial production drew out a typical crowd of first nighters, but so clever was the work of the dancer and so compelling the strains of Strauss' famous music that not one word of protest was raised against the artist's costume—or lack thereof. Like Miss Allen, Miss Hoffman manages to dispense with fashions, shoes and stockings, while a few strands of pearl beads suffice for all purposes above the waist. The most extensive feature of the artist's wardrobe is the full length transparent skirt through which the dancers nude limbs are plainly visible at all times, save when it is hurled waist high by the motions of the dance.

The act is elaborately staged and no effort is spared to get from it all the beauty possible through light and musical effect.

DAUGHTER

Fatally Shoots Father, Who Had Threatened to Kill Wife and Child.
Bailed by Neighbors.

Millville, N. J., July 15.—With scores of her neighbors eager to give bail if necessary, Helen Polhamus, postmistress in Delmont, a village near here, is free today after fatally shooting her father. Polhamus, wild with liquor, entered the house and struck down a younger daughter, Sarah. Going up stairs with the expressed intention of killing his wife and her three days' old child, his daughter Helen shot. One bullet struck her father in the neck and a second in the abdomen. Neighbors who threatened to lynch Polhamus were restrained by the daughter.

Berlin, July 15.—Anne T. Morgan, daughter of J. Pierpont Morgan, visited the manufacturing center of Berlin today in a study of the workingmen's condition. Miss Morgan has joined the list of wealthy persons of social position who have become interested in the amelioration of laboring conditions.

SNAKE VIRUS HANDY SAVES CHILD'S LIFE

Carlisle, Pa., July 15.—Mabel Hassler, aged 14, of Graffenburg, was lucky in being bitten by a copperhead to have physicians, specialists, immediately at hand with specifics they had just prepared as antidotes from similar snakes.
Drs. Engle and Robinson, of Philadelphia, had been experimenting right along that line, capturing live copperheads and rattlesnakes for the French Pathological Institute, and were fortunately supplied with specific remedies. The girl has entirely recovered.

MAJOR TAYLOR HAS BAD FALL

Bordeaux, July 15.—Major Taylor, the negro bicyclist of the United States, is resting comfortably today after his bad fall from his wheel yesterday afternoon. He is not internally injured as at first believed and his right arm only being seriously hurt. Taylor was thrown by the bursting of a tire. He will be able to race again next week.

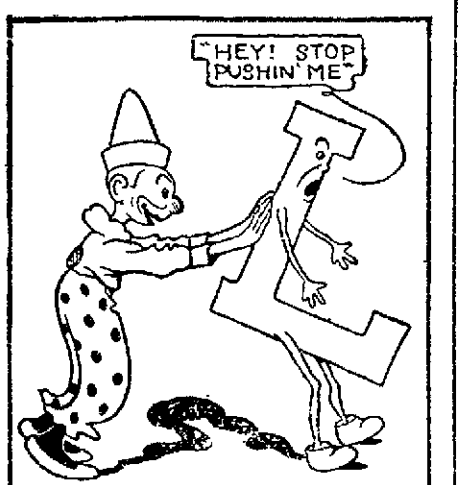

SUSPECT DEAD WOMAN'S SON.

Paterson, N. J., July 15.—Chemical analysis is being made of the stomach of Mrs. Fannie Tepack, following a disinterment of the body in an effort to learn whether she was poisoned. While the autopsy was performed in the Paterson morgue, three sons of the dead woman, Louis, Nathan and George, who hold policies on her life, stood across the street, awaiting the decision. Later they were in the cemetery when the body was reinterred. They are being kept under surveillance.

THREE FOREIGNERS KILLED.

Youngstown, O., June 15.—Three foreigners were killed and several others had narrow escapes when a sewer trench caved in today. At noon the bodies of the dead had not been recovered.

PROMISES TO DO THINGS

Women With the Split Skirts Had Better Steer Shy of Mrs. Nation
Who Is Watching for One.

Columbus, July 15.—"Here, boys, come out of here; come out of this gilded palace of sin, this hellhole," shouted Mrs. Carrie A. Nation, the Kansas saloon smasher, as she passed into the crystallized entrance of Bott Brothers' cafe, North High street, last night and marched boldly up to the bar which was thronged with men.
"Are you the proprietor of this den of iniquity," she demanded, pointing to Joseph Williams, manager. "No, but I wish I was," said Williams timidly and immediately discovered that he was needed in another part of the room. "You ought to be ashamed of yourselves, shame on you all," she continued, waving her arms frantically in the air, as she turned to address a throng that had gathered about her.

"Think of your mothers; have you no shame? Can't you see these beautiful decorations. They were bought with your money, the money your wives and children ought to have for food and clothing. Those crystals dangling around those beautiful lights are from the tears of women and children. Shame, shame, go home to your families. You are drinking yourselves to hell."
While she was speaking there were numerous invitations to her to join the men at the bar, while there were cries from all parts of the room, "Have a drink. Carrie? I'll buy a drink. What are you going to have Carrie?" "If I were going to drink it would be pure water," replied Mrs. Nation. "I would take something to quench my thirst, not something to increase it. That drink contains the fire of hell," she said to a young man who was pouring whiskey into a glass. "Shame on you. You have a mother, haven't you? What would she think of her son if she saw him now? Look at those inflamed eyes and that red nose. Shame, shame on you all." Then turning to leave, she began reciting a poem which began: "Who hath sorrow; who hath woe; those who dare not answer no; they whose feet to sin incline; why he laries at the wine," and ended with these words: "Touch not, taste not, handle not."
After the little visit at Bott Brothers, Mrs. Nation and her followers, who were increasing in numbers very rapidly, stopped in front of a cigar store window filled with boxes of cigars. Here she spoke at length on the evils of using tobacco, especially in cigar form, and said a man who would either sell or advertise cigars ought to be arrested. In the windows of the Union stores at High and Long streets, her attention was attracted by a model wearing a split skirt. "Women are drunk on clothes," she said, "and there is every evidence of it. Look at that vulgar dress. It's a sin and a shame. If I ever see a woman wearing one of those skirts, I intend to tear it off of her," said Mrs. Nation, her eyes flashing with anger.

Several hundred men and boys were with her when she reached the Board of Trade building, where she attended a session of the Woman's Prohibition club of America.
"I came here to attend the convention but I will do a few things before I leave," she declared as she entered the building. "I want you all to come to the meeting at the board of trade tomorrow night. I intend to speak, and I will tell you something you never heard. The meeting will start at 7:30 p. m. under the auspices of the Woman's Prohibition club and everything will be free." These last remarks were addressed to the crowd which had followed her to the very door of the auditorium.

Mrs. Nation is very bitter toward some of the members of the Prohibition party who wanted her to stop at the Southern where there is a hotel bar. "I do not think I want to eat and sleep in a saloon," she said. "I'd rather camp out in the gutter. No; I'm not like some of my Prohibition friends who preach against the saloon and then live in one."

Mrs. Nation yesterday morning, soon after her arrival in the city, attended a meeting of the state Prohibition convention and in the afternoon attended a session of the Woman's Prohibition club. She announced her purpose to speak at 7:30 tonight at the Board of Trade building. She attracted much attention wherever she went.

A remarkable fact about the afternoon session of the Woman's Prohibition club was that there were more men there than women. The presence of many women speakers of national reputation, including Mrs. Nation, Mrs. Anna Sloan Walker of Decatur, Ill., national president of the organization, and Mary E. Kuhl of Chicago, president of the Illinois Women's Christian Temperance union and national evangelist, also made the meeting one of universal interest. The program was well under way when Mrs. Nation entered, accompanied by her young granddaughter, Miss Carrie Belle McNabb, whose home is near Houston, Texas.

Mrs. Nation occupied a seat near the stage; and, as she listened to the speakers, expressed her approval and disapproval of what was said in audible and decided terms. She engaged in conversation with a man who sat near her, taking issue with him about a chance remark he made to the effect that mothers as well as fathers and sons were prone to indulge in the use of intoxicants.

SUSPECTS SWEATED

PARTIES LAST SEEN WITH HAZEL
DREW PUT THROUGH THIRD DEGREE.

Murdered Girl Laid Away in Church
Yard of the Village Where She Was Born.

Troy, N. Y., July 15.—New light on the murder of Hazel Drew at Teal Pond has resulted in a close surveillance of Frank Smith, a half witted farmer boy, and Rudolph Gundersman, a charcoal peddler, who admits having seen the girl on the night she is supposed to have been slain. Both are being "sweated" here today by District Attorney O'Brien, after the discovery that on the night of the supposed murder, Smith, wild eyed and breathless, made a frenzied visit to a drug store.

Gundersman, in his statement, said he had started for Troy to meet a fishing party and took Smith along in a big farm wagon.
"As we neared Teal Pond," said Gundersman, "a young woman, walking along the lonely road, met us and spoke to Smith, calling him by his first name, and the boy replied, addressing her as 'Hazel.' As we drove along Smith explained to me that the girl was Hazel Drew, and as I glanced back over my shoulder I saw her walking up the hill toward the home of her uncle. Smith accompanied me as far as avenue park, quite a distance from the point where I saw the young woman."

That the girl was assaulted before she was murdered and thrown into the pond is the generally accepted theory, but the body was in such a state of decomposition as to make it practically impossible for the physician to determine that fact.

In the church yard at Poestenkill, where Hazel's life began, her body was interred yesterday afternoon.

Airship Today—Dashed Against Roof of Shed.

Friedrichshafen, July 15.—Another accident caused some postponement of Count Zeppelin's promised record breaking airship flight. The accident today was much more serious than on yesterday. Today the monster airship was brought from the shed and her crew and 15 passengers taken aboard. Before the ship had gained headway the wind caught her on the beam and dashed her against the roof of the shed.

PROHIBS IN CONVENTION HAVE MANY CANDIDATES

Columbus, July 15.—The Prohibitionists national convention began its preliminary session at 10 o'clock this morning with Robert H. Patton of Springfield, Ill., as temporary chairman and keynote speaker.

When the session started, aside from the leaders still clinging to the hope of yet persuading Seaborn Wright of Georgia, Democrat, or Judge Samuel R. Artman, Indiana Republican, to accept the Presidential nomination,

SEVENTY-FIVE PER CENT OF COLORED VOTE WILL GO TO BRYAN THIS FALL

Washington, July 15.—According to Rev. J. Milton Waldron, D. D., of Washington, the negroes of the country are becoming engaged in a formidable movement against Taft. Dr. Waldron says all the anti-Roosevelt and anti-Taft negro organizations and their sympathizers among the colored people are being merged with the National Negro American Political League of which he is president. He says the league has determined to support Bryan for President, and that it will conduct a campaign of its own among the colored people of every state with the object of defeating Mr. Taft.

Along this line the following telegram was sent to Mr. Bryan yesterday:
"We congratulate you upon your nomination to the Presidency by the representatives of the American people—not by the hirings of a boss—and we predict your election next November by a handsome majority. Judging from assurances given us by our people throughout the North and West you will receive 75 per cent of the colored vote."

"J. MILTON WALDRON, D. D., President of the National American Political League."

Dr. Walton said Mr. Bryan and other leaders of the party had given his league sufficient assurances that if Mr. Bryan is elected he and the Democratic party will treat the colored man with due consideration.

Nearly all the members of the executive committee of the league are residents of Washington. Of the number are Rev. Crothers, pastor of the American Episcopal Zion church, and Rev. George W. Lee, of the Vermont Avenue Baptist church, the largest colored congregation in this city. Dr. Waldron is pastor of Shiloh Baptist church. It is asserted that the league has a membership of 700,000 through its various branches and organizations in affiliation with it.

Reasons for the proposed political departure of the black race are set forth in a statement prepared for publication by Rev. Dr. Waldron. It says:

"We went to Chicago with the avowed intention of heartily supporting the Republican party should it return to the principles upon which it was founded, but on reaching Chicago we found that more than two-thirds of the delegates to the convention were office holders appointed by President Roosevelt and pledged to carry out his policy of destroying all those who opposed him, whether they were good men or bad, in the right or in the wrong—and when we learned from statements repeatedly made by Mr. Roosevelt's representatives at the convention, that he had decided to recognize the 'Lily White faction' in the party with the avowed purpose of eventually eliminating the negro from politics in the South in the hope of building up there a strong Republican organization, and when no efforts on our part, nor on the part of the old line white Republicans, could induce Mr. Roosevelt's delegates to pledge the party to reinstate the discharged negro soldiers who are innocent of participation in the shooting of Brownsville, we decided, after repeated and lengthy conferences with the more than 200 representatives assembled in Chicago from all parts of America, to oppose with all our might and main the election of Wm. H. Taft to the Presidency of the United States.

"At the conference in Chicago of our league and officers of the dozen other political organizations which afterward consolidated with it the league voted unanimously not to support Mr. Taft, and a committee of five—J. Milton Waldron, D. D., of Washington; E. L. Gilliam, D. D., of Ohio; George W. Gaines, D. D., of Illinois; William Monroe Trotter of Massachusetts; and Bishop Walter D. D. of New York—to be known as an 'Anti-Taft Campaign Committee,' was appointed and authorized to decide upon the best method to defeat Mr. Taft and carry on with vigor and unrelenting zeal the war against him. This committee finds that the majority of the negro leaders and their people as well as supporting the Democratic nominee for the Presidency.

"Every intelligent self-respecting negro knows that he will be probably read out of the party if Mr. Roosevelt's policy triumphs next November, and Mr. Taft is elected. In order to prevent this and to secure for the race justice and fair play in the future the negro must defeat Mr. Roosevelt's candidate, and to make sure of this the negroes must cast their votes for Mr. Bryan.
"The league has opened headquarters in Chicago, and has a large force of men at work in that section under the direction of Dr. Henry C. Cress."

ALICE NOT TO BE THE GUEST OF KENTUCKY

Delegation Will Not Entertain President's
Daughter

VOTE IS VERY DECISIVE

Races, Cigarettes and Geo. B. Cox
Mrs. Nicholas Longworth.

Columbus, July 1.—Col. Demaree, chairman of the Kentucky delegation to the national prohibition convention which yesterday turned down the invitation to Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth to attend the sessions of the convention as the guests of the Kentucky delegation, said today that only about half the delegation was present when the action was taken, and that another session will be held this afternoon, and action will then be reconsidered, Demaree says, and the invitation extended. On the other hand, Mrs. Beauchamp of Lexington, who made the charges, says the incident is closed.

Columbus, July 15.—By a decisive vote, the Kentucky state delegation to the Prohibition national convention yesterday afternoon refused to endorse the action of three of their number in sending an invitation to Alice Roosevelt Longworth to attend the national convention as the guest of the delegation. The members of the Kentucky delegation, voted to lay on the table for an indefinite period a motion by one of the three who sent the invitation that the action of the committee be made that of the whole delegation.

In doing so, they kept up the fighting reputation of Kentuckians, and said some very uncomplimentary things about the daughter of President Roosevelt.

Singularly enough the fight centered about those very things which are said to be dear to the hearts of all Kentuckians—fine horses, beautiful women, but instead of good whiskey they were cigarettes. Mrs. Longworth was the woman, the Latonia races which she attended represented the fine horses, and the cigarettes were connected with her name in a way which did not bear out the general opinion that chivalry toward the beautiful women they are supposed to love, is a trait of the Kentucky man's character.

It was charged that Mrs. Longworth had been known to use the soothing cigarette, that she had been seen in the company of George B. Cox of Cincinnati at the Latonia races, and that she was not the type of woman the delegates ought to select as their honor guest at a Prohibition convention.

Mrs. Frances E. Beauchamp of Lexington, the only woman member of the national Prohibition committee, was one of those who arraigned Mrs. Longworth. She declared Mrs. Longworth was a woman who did not stand for that type of womanhood and for those things which all true Kentuckians hold dear.
The self-appointed committee of three from the delegation which had sent the invitation to Mrs. Longworth were H. W. Davis, Louisville; Col. T. P. Demaree of Wilmore, and H. S. D. Wright of Louisville. It was Col. Demaree who made the motion that the invitation be made that of the whole delegation. He urged the adoption of his motion. He was backed up by several delegates, who declared the remarks about Mrs. Longworth were an affront to the President and ought not to go out to the world from a delegation representing their state. The secretary of the delegation, Rev. Andrew Johnson of Wilmore, declared that if Mrs. Longworth was not as good a woman as she ought to be, it was all the more reason why they should invite her, that she might see how the Prohibition party does its work, in a clean and upright manner.

The invitation, by the tabling of the motion, stands as only the invitation of the three delegates, and if Mrs. Longworth, with her husband, attends the Columbus convention, as she did the Denver and Chicago conventions of the Democratic and Republican parties, she will do so as the guest of the three delegates and not of the state of Kentucky.

AS TO BOSS COX AND THE TAFTS

The man that William H. Taft condemned in 1905 is today become the headstone of the Taft presidential structure. It will be recalled that it was only because "public duty" called him elsewhere that Mr. Taft refrained from voting against Mr. Cox's ticket in Cincinnati in 1905.
It is to be presumed that, now that public duties are not making such strenuous demands upon the time of Mr. Taft, he will take advantage of his presence in Cincinnati to expose the horrible practices of bossism. What William and Charles could do about how Mr. Cox helped them to get a majority of the Ohio delegation to the Chicago convention would make mighty interesting reading. Doubtless William in his devotion to public morals and decency simply went through the formality of a race for the presidential nomination just in order to the better acquaint himself with the iniquities of Cox's bossism that he had so fervently denounced in his Akron speech of 1905.

Iowa Republicans resemble the "Happy Family" of which the showman said the members lived together in tranquillity for a long time, though "it was necessary to renew the lamb frequently." The conservatives knifed the last progressive State ticket. The progressives are now getting ready to take their revenge. They are likely to control the Legislature and send Cummins to the Senate in spite of the recent primaries, and the prospect has set the Republicans to fighting each other with much more energy than either faction as disposed to fight the Democrats.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC

The Sabbath school of the West Newark Christian Union church will hold its annual picnic at Idlewild Park Friday, July 17, and a cordial invitation is extended to all members of the Sabbath school and church to be present, also to all friends, and especially to the members of the North Newark church and Sabbath school.
A short literary program, together with numerous athletic games and contests has been arranged for, which together with a bounteous dinner at 12 o'clock, will make a very profitable and enjoyable day.
This Sabbath school is in a very prosperous condition, having made a gain in membership of 45 per cent, and in offerings of over 100 per cent for the past quarter, over the quarter one year ago.
A "Red" and "Blue" membership contest will be organized just after-noon hour, which is expected to create quite an interest in the school during the next six weeks.
The school will meet at the Church on Pine street at 9.30 and march to the park in a body.

Quebec's Magnificent Pageant

Grand Panoramic Drama, Most Spectacular Feature of Tercentenary Celebration Commemorating the Founding of Canada's Famous Old City. Historic Scenes Re-enacted.

By FREDERICK R. TOOMBS.
THE French have taken Quebec! Once more the founders and original holders of the famous old Canadian city are supreme within its precincts. Once more the haughty Breton has found himself compelled to rest content with only secondary consideration in the historic metropolis of the past. The fleur-de-lis, "the lilies of France," those medieval encouragements to valor, are seen on every side throughout English as well as French Canada.
All this sounds highly warlike. France has made another conquest of the territory along the St. Lawrence? Yes, but this latter day conquest is a conquest of peace. Not a drop of blood, but a tidal wave of good will, has flowed, all in honor of the coming three hundredth anniversary of the landing of the great French explorer, Samuel de Champlain, at what is now Quebec and the consequent founding of the city. Of course such a celebration must necessarily be a French celebration, even though occurring in British territory, but the two nations have joined with equal enthusiasm in the project and for the present purposes are practically one race.
The tercentenary celebration opens July 20, and in addition to the truly magnificent programme of events arranged there will occur probably the greatest gathering of notable personages of many nations that Canada has ever known. So great an international significance is accorded the Quebec anniversary that Edward VII. is sending his royal highness the Prince of Wales, with Prince Arthur, only son of the Duke of Connaught, and an imposing suit, on board a swift armored cruiser as his government's representative. President Roosevelt has named Vice President Fairbanks to act in the same capacity, and the president of the French republic is sending a large delegation of prominent men and several battleships. Rear Admiral William S. Cowles, U. S. N., who is President Roosevelt's brother-in-law, will be the president's personal representative and will also represent the United States Navy. Lieutenant Commander David P. Sellers of the bureau of navigation will be his aide. The first class battleship New Hampshire has been designated to carry the United States representatives to Quebec. She will sail from Newport, R. I., and will arrive at Quebec July 22, the date set for the arrival of the Prince of Wales. It is estimated that between thirty and forty warships will take part in the naval pageant in the St. Lawrence.

Splendid Panoramic Drama.

The celebration will last about two weeks, and undoubtedly the most spectacular feature will be the panoramic drama, of an allegorical nature, representing the different stages of Quebec's advancement from the wilderness to today. This pageant will be produced on the Plains of Abraham, the high cliff overlooking the river where Wolfe, the final conqueror of Quebec for England, and Montcalm, the heroic defender, both met death in the same battle. Upward of 1,000 people will take part in the series to be created. Rehearsals of the different parts of the production have been going on since the middle of June under the direction of Frank Lascelles, master of pageants, who was director of the Oxford pageant a year ago. The first scene will picture the primal wilderness along the St.

drawing back in affright at first at the appearance, sound and deadly effectiveness of the matchlocks of the French, the like of which they had never dreamed.

Other panoramic pictures will illustrate some of the great religious events which are closely interwoven in the history making epochs of Canada in general and Quebec in particular. The Ursuline nuns will arrive and receive welcome from the rejoicing populace, led by General Montgomery, Knight of Malta. The Jesuit fathers also have their place in the scenes. Dollard des Ormeaux, the explorer and fighter, and his sixteen heroes of the Long Sault form the central figures of the ninth tableau. The celebrated de Montmagny in the council chamber of the Chateau St. Louis has not been overlooked. Frontenac will receive the messenger from Sir William Phillips, commander of the attacking British forces, bearing a demand to surrender Quebec. Frontenac will repeat the famous answer, "Tell your master to expect a reply from the mouth of my cannon." The final tableau will be particularly reminiscent, for in it will appear the principal figures in the battle of the Plains of Abraham in September, 1759. Montcalm and De Levis of the French, Wolfe and Murray of the attacking British, will with their commands march and counter-march over the blood consecrated ground where the ancestors of many of the actual present participants fell and died.

In the third and fifth tableaux respectively will appear Francis I. of France and his court and King Henry IV. of France, his court and his chief adviser, Sully. This entire series of panoramas will be repeated on several different days.

Fine Naval Display at Night.

Other features of the thirteen days' programme will be processions through the streets of Quebec, exercises before the Champlain statue, receptions of the official guests, speech by the Prince of Wales, renditions of sacred and secular music, military band concerts, regattas on the river, receptions on board the warships, dedication of the battlefield of the Plains of Abraham by the prince, official ball at Parliament House given by the government of the province of Quebec, naval display at night by the combined fleet, planting of a tree in Victoria park by the prince, speech by Vice President Fairbanks, parades of Canadian clubs and societies, immense fireworks displays and speech by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, premier of Canada.

The magnitude and scope of the tercentenary celebration, the transatlantic voyage of the heir to the British throne and of other dignitaries to take part in it and the keen general interest taken in it by great nations indicate that the anniversary commemorated has unusual significance, an import far deeper than merely nominal consideration would reveal. And such is really the fact. The history of Quebec is largely the history of Canada. The city, its founders and developers have wielded an influence in international affairs that they did not reckon, that in their times there are who aver that in American history Quebec should rank with Jamestown and Plymouth in importance as a birthplace of American liberties, owing presumably to the powerful influence exerted from Quebec prior to the Revolution in territory now included in the United States. Quebec's visitors will be well cared for. A "city of tents" with accommodations for 15,000 people, will supplement the preparations made by hotel and boarding house keepers.

Besieged Five Times.

Quebec was long the key to the possession of the entire Dominion of Canada. It became a part of the unwritten law of nations that whoever held Quebec became entitled to possession of the surrounding territory. This accounts for the fact that Quebec has been under siege or prolonged and concerted attack no less than five times—a record comparing with those of some of the famous war towns of continental Europe. For over a century Quebec was the center of military operations of France and England in the new world, as well as the educational, religious and political center. In its value as a strategic point Quebec is unsurpassed by any city in North America. By successfully resisting the Continental army under General Montgomery and Benedict Arnold in 1771 Quebec saved all of the present Dominion of Canada to Great Britain. It was the city that opened the way to the establishment of the great trading posts in the wilderness that were to earn vast fortunes for the prices and nobility. At Quebec is the Basilica, the mother church of Roman Catholicism in America. It was in Quebec that dwelt and ruled, with their retinues, at the Chateau St. Louis, the governors sent over from France and England. The city has long boasted of one of the strongest natural fortifications in the world—the Citadel, crowning the city, well described as the Gibraltar of America, which was designed by Lord Wellington. Quebec was at one time the capital and largest city of the vast territory, and it founded and fostered the great industries that have utilized the immeasurable wealth of the Dominion—ship building, lumbering, manufacturing and mining.

Graceful Homage to Champlain.

Now will appear the actual living descendants of great men of Quebec's past, who will do graceful homage to Champlain. The present Marquis de Montcalm will be one of these, and another will be Lord Lovat, direct descendant of the gallant colonel and chief of the Fraser highlanders, which distinguished themselves at the battle of the Plains of Abraham. Following will be shown a panorama of Champlain's first battle with the Iroquois, the superstitious natives

BALLOONING FOR SOCIETY.

Mrs. Charles A. Bristed Plans to Make It a Fashionable Sport.

Mrs. Charles Astor Bristed of New York, now at her country place near Lake Mahkeene, in Berkshire, Mass., is to be the first prominent society woman of the millionaire Berkshire colony to take up ballooning.

Mrs. Bristed, who is a close friend of Mrs. Cortlandt Field Bishop, has become an enthusiast over the possibilities of ballooning as a sport, and as soon as society is really settled in the hills she will give a balloon party. Mrs. Bristed will use the new balloon Berkshire, which recently arrived in Pittsfield. This balloon will carry six, and Mrs. Bristed will invite four of her friends to make the flight with her early in July. This will be the first society ballooning event in America, as the guests of Mrs. Bristed will be women of the foremost social scale.

Only a short flight is planned, and the aeronauts will take automobiles back to Lenox in time for dinner. Mrs. Bishop, who has made several ascensions with Count de la Vaulx in Paris will be one of Mrs. Bristed's guests in the initial flight.

If the balloon sport becomes popular, several men of the Berkshire cottage colony will club together and buy a balloon for their personal use.

TAFT'S DEFY OF A HOODOO.

The Secretary Walked Under a Ladder After Thinking It All Over.

Secretary Taft was discovered the other day in a corridor of the war department hesitating before a long ladder that straddled the passage. On its top were two workmen engaged in repairing a chandelier. The secretary made a fine show of being interested in the operations of the men in the air, but he also was looking furtively around to see if he was observed.

Those who were watching from a place of concealment finally saw him throw back his shoulders, run his hands through his hair and walk briskly under the ladder. He continued to the door of his office without looking back.

"Mistah Secretary Taft surreptitious?" repeated the secretary's negro doorkeeper when the question was put to him. "No, sah; no, sah; Mistah Secretary Taft ain't got nothin' to be surreptitious about. Looks lak ol' Mistah Good Luck jes naturally a-stompin' on his heels."

Secretary Taft declined to talk of popular superstitions. He just laughed.

A Blow at Public Ownership.

No heavier blow was ever struck at government ownership and operation in this country than the report of the joint congressional committee to investigate the workings of the postoffice department. After describing the unbusinesslike, crude and wasteful methods that have grown up in the report says, with admirable directness: "Under such a system a large railroad, commercial or industrial business would inevitably go into bankruptcy, and the postoffice department has averted this fate only because the United States treasury has been available to meet deficiencies."

For years there has been a large deficit, always made up by a dip into the treasury. It is true that it has been held that if the service that the department extends free to the government and to congressmen under the franking act were properly charged up the deficiency would disappear—that it is merely a bookkeeping one. The fact remains nevertheless that the department always runs behind, requiring from $10,000,000 to $14,000,000 to pay its debts at the end of the year—Saginaw (Mich.) Courier-Herald.

Langdon's Lighting Loss.

A well informed citizen of Langdon, N. D., writes:

"The city bought the electric light plant in 1902 for $7,500 and added about $10,000 in improvements. Four and a half years later the plant was sold for $9,000, involving a capital loss of $5,500. In addition to this there was an operating loss of $2,000 a year, making a total loss for four and a half years of $17,500.

"It is not known just what the conditions were, but the above statement is the closest I can get, as the accounts of the lighting business were mixed with the rest of the city accounts, and the recorder never made a statement showing the condition of the plant.

"While the plant cost the city over $17,000, it cost it very much more in factional fights, as when the plant was sold there was nothing too mean for one side to say and do against the other, and whatever any one wanted, whether it were right or wrong, he had to fight somebody if it was of a public nature, as there was no harmony."

SHADE AND SUNSTROKE.

There's an opinion that the more sun poultry get the better off.

You that have seen chickens sun-struck know better.

Intense heat flattens ducklings, partridges, turkeys, and when it does not strike fowls down the flock is debilitated.

These days, if you find a leafy tree with a cool spring gurgling beneath its shade, you shout for joy. There you drink and drink and drink. If you do not have natural shade, erect little booths and place water vessels under them and watch how the chicks appreciate it.

We scatter water vessels all over the range and have bunches of sunflowers blooming everywhere. Like you, fowls rest and drink and drink. If a bird gets sunstruck we dip him in cold well water.

If that doesn't bring him to, he's a goner.

A pint of happiness is worth a peck of trouble.

Preserve Your Books

There is nothing so displeasing to the sense of taste as a well constructed library filled with books, the leaves projecting, covers half off, and possibly one-fourth of the contents of the book missing.

We Can Help You

If you will bring your books to us and let us make them as good as new, by fastening in the leaves and putting on new covers, it will not only help the appearance of the library but will enhance the value of your books. Old books become more valuable as they grow older. Especially is this true of special editions and rare works.

It will make your books of reference more valuable, because you know that the entire book is in the proper place, with a good substantial binding, preserving the contents for future reference.

MUNICIPAL MANAGEMENT.

Galesburg's City Waterworks Are Run on a Business Destroying Principle—Water Less Popular Than Gas.

A recent issue of Public Service contained an article by William H. Hodge on the public works of Galesburg, Ill., under the title "Ownership That Does Not Pay." Although the rates are high, the waterworks lose upward of $10,000 a year, with a liberal allowance for hydrants. The contrast between municipal and private management is sharply brought out by the fact that for every three families that use city water there are five that have gas stoves, gas being supplied by a company. The writer explains:

"The city does not seek to encourage new business. Consumers must deposit $13.50, or the full cost of a meter, before receiving service and keep the money on deposit as long as they keep the meter. They are required to put in and pay for the lateral pipes, or service connections with the street mains, and no inducements whatever are held out to them to encourage them to become patrons of the city water plant. If a patron becomes delinquent and moves away the city insists on some one paying the bill before the water is turned on for the succeeding tenant, thus forcing either the landlord or the new tenant to liquidate expenses belonging to others.

"Even those citizens who wish to become patrons are not permitted to do so in many cases because the city is niggardly in extending mains. Scarcely a council meeting is held at which unsatisfied demands and protests are not presented, calling for new mains to newly built up residence sections. Numbers of these are without city water and seem to be unable to get it. The last annual report of the water superintendent shows there are thirty-three miles of water mains. In the year 1906-7 extensions amounted to only 4,105 feet of six inch pipe, costing $4,525.99.

"Those conditions and others make the water situation in Galesburg a curious study. The 1906-7 report of the superintendent shows 1,575 meters in use, meaning just that many water takers, or one to every 14.6 persons, less than one in every three families of four individuals.

"There were, roughly speaking, more than 1,000 gas stoves in excess of users of city water in Galesburg at this time, which would lead to the conviction, if all other conditions were equal, that the gas stove in this town is considered far more important to health, comfort and happiness than municipal water. The owner of a gas stove, however, has his service connection made free, pays nothing for the use of the meter and a reasonable price for the fuel used, features, it is clear, which have not been lost upon him."

The writer goes on to describe the municipal electric light plant, the records of which are quite inadequate. A low estimate, however, makes the cost per lamp per year over $90 on moonlight schedule, which is the equivalent of about $86 to $90 for all night service.

Mr. Hodge also quotes the mayor as saying that he does not think municipal ownership and operation can be made a success in the United States so long as present political conditions prevail. He thinks that public utilities should be operated by private companies under franchises fair to all concerned and is of the opinion that such a method contributes to the economy of the community and its development and upbuilding.

The hard rainstorm which visited Newark Tuesday afternoon, was general over the entire state and as a result none of the Ohio State League games was played. Mansfield was in the city ready for the fray, but Manager Kelly conferred with the Mansfield bunch, and it was agreed to postpone the game and play a double header tomorrow. At the same time, Wednesday was selected for ladies' day.

Mansfield and Newark teams are even on the series thus far. Newark has 9 and Mansfield 9 out of the 18 games played this season. Newark has the greatest number of victories in Newark, having won 6 out of the 9 games played at Wehrle park. The baseball directors will hold a meeting at Business Manager Maurath's office in the city building tonight. Bills will be allowed and other routine business transacted.

EHMAN MASTERS OVERHAND BALL

Atten-hen! On tennis, for several years to get the Biff Ehman into tennis, company not that they want to get rid of the big player, but because they want the honor of developing an tennis champion. He has been tried out by Cleveland and Columbus and both times was turned back by these teams.

But claims now to have discovered his weakness and he attributes it to his lack of an overhead ball. No, certainly a few weeks ago he set a tour to put his style of delivery in his repertoire and claims to have mastered a good overhead delivery with excellent control.

Buff now believes that he will be able to make good with the next club that drafts him. He was always a "safety" pitcher, with a good hand and a faculty for taking care of himself. He should make good with almost any club.

CRUDE OIL FOR MARION DIAMOND

Hugh Tate Recommends This Treatment to Lay the Dust and Improve the Field.

Marion, July 15—The management of the local club is now considering putting crude oil over the playing field at Webb park. This is in response to a suggestion by Hugh Tate, the diamond at Louisville, of the American association league was put in excellent shape in this manner. The oil will lay the dust and at the same time drain the soil and keep the playing field a trifle soft on top.

OHIO STATE NEW ATHLETIC FIELD

Will be Best in Middle West—New Bleachers Being Constructed. Field Well Drained.

Those Ohio State university men who took up the burden of having a modern athletic field built have made good. Less than a year ago they pledged their word to the students to have the field ready for use by the football team of 1908. Their pledge has been kept.

Right now the gridiron is in splendid condition. Finishing touches are being put on the running track and the baseball diamond. By the end of the week this work will be completed. The drainage system an elaborate one, is working satisfactorily.

The committee is going to do more than was promised originally. At first it was intended to go along for a season or two with rather ramshackle stands for the spectators.

Plans for the construction of a large open bleacher on the east side of the gridiron are now in the office of Secretary Steeb. Friday bids for the construction will be closed. When the bid is torn off the football season, the players will have a capital place for play and the people will have a commodious stand from which to watch the fun.

"STAR BRAND SHOES ARE BETTER." STEPHAN'S DEPT. STORE.

A man generally knows an opportunity when he sees it, but he doesn't always seize it.

The dentist seldom hurfs defiance in the teeth of his patients.

QUACKERY.

Are you a chicken quack? Shake! We are glad you aren't a batchet fiend. They tell you "it seldom pays to doctor a sick chicken." Well, here are 100 big Rocks. They show signs of roop. You may lose a half dozen in treatment, but the hatchet remedy cleans up the coop. Yes, that was civil war surgery. "Saw off that leg," and off it came till legs and arms piled even with the window sill. Ostricize your chickens? Well, we don't. The investigation of disease has led to a system of symptoms, causes and cures for poultry ailments that's a blessing to poultryman and fowl alike.

DON'TS.

Don't feed Scrim on the man who swindles you. It's casting pearls before swine.

Don't feed your chickens rot and expect them to be fit to eat and lay pure eggs. It's rotten.

Don't carry chickens by the legs. It's barbarous business. Ducks are carried by the neck. Not here!

Don't set salt, lime, glass or storage eggs for fresh stock. It's a mighty sneaky fox that never was caught.

Don't let your wife get the reputation of having all the chicken knowledge on the place. It shows you're lazy.

Don't pretend that you have good stock to make a sale. Chickens of that breed always come home to scratch.

Don't get crazy if your neighbors' hen flies over the fence, especially when your "yaller" dog tracks all the porches in town. Hiss!

Don't get chicken crazy and mortgage your house to buy incubators. When the sheriff comes in at the door chicken fever flies out at the window.

Don't get the chicken fever simply because the other fellow won a silver cup. Not every honest fellow gets a silver cup, and all is not silver that shines.

Don't get the blues if eggs drop in price. The farmer's pullets are making their debut. But if a manager, you are getting more eggs now than ever, and the quantity makes up for lower price.

THE BACK YARD FANCIER.

Is he a new bird? No; he is older even than his oldest hen, and she is related to the cock that crew thrice. Is he restricted to any locality? No; he is everywhere. His roster chicken in Maine is answered by a Shanghai in Porto Rico. His Plymouth Rock's clarion to the sun as it rises from the Atlantic is shouted back by the cocks of Honolulu and Manila bay, where they raise game chickens for religious purposes. You have the back yard fancier in your own town. It is so near that when his hen cackles over a new laid egg it wakens the baby. His roosters crow so loudly on a Sunday morning that you are cheated out of a half day's sleep.

This gentleman of back lotters has thus far succeeded in confining the chicken fever to a small area. If it succeeds in reaching the solar plexus, he will soon have a bad case of poultry farm. His stock is "fair to middlin'" and generally provides eggs for the family cakes and custards and an occasional roast for the preacher.

Does poultry pay him? It does. If he makes a little profit, his investment is small, and he can rejoice. If he just makes the feed, he can buy eggs and roasts no cheaper, and his principal has waxed fat. If he fails a little back, he must remember that eggs from his own hens and roasts from his own pens are more delicious and valuable than an unknown quantity.

FEATHERS AND EGGSHELLS.

When you look round for eggs for hatching, don't get the cheap kind.

Too many Canadian chickens are crossing the line to suit some northern fanciers.

California business men are offering inducements to poultrymen to settle in that state. A fine flock of White Leghorns would look mighty pretty in an orange grove.

If you have done your best to get a hatch from that old clatter incubator and only half succeeded, what's the use to try, try again? Buy a dependable machine and you'll quit swearing.

"I'm dirty, and John's dirty, too," replied a lady when asked the age of herself and husband. In her case she was dirty and yet clean, but some poultrymen are never above being dirty and yet are overdirty.

Pennsylvania raised over 400,000 green ducks in 1907. Old Jeff and the University of Pennsylvania turned out a drove of young green quacks, but they are now outdone. Cornell has established a chair of poultry husbandry. Will Old Jeff and the U. of P. still keep their slow waddle, or have they enough quack specialists?

When strictly fresh eggs are taken to the store the grocer should allow an even trade at the retail price. If the poultryman drops below the retail egg price, then the grocer should lower the price on goods exchanged. No fair dealer will demand two profits. A dog in the manger is bad, a hog in the hen's nest is worse, but a cross of dog and hog in a business deal is a blue ribbon hybrid.

The prevalence of soft corn is affording a problem for farmer, miller, stock raiser and poultryman to worry over. In some states half the corn is moldy. We have saved ours by running it through the power cutter and feeding it cool and all. But where's the corn to come from next summer? The duck men will yell the loudest, but these soft roaster fellows ought to leap for joy.

STRUCK BY AN AUTO

MR. FRANK LINKE MAY BE SERIOUSLY AND PERHAPS INTERNALLY INJURED.

Collides With Carroll Car as He Was Crossing Street Carrying Open Umbrella.

Mr. Frank Linke, manager of the Powers-Miller department store, was seriously, perhaps internally injured in a collision with the touring car belonging to Mr. John J. Carroll, driven by Mr. Carroll's chauffeur, Jack Whitling. The accident happened near the corner of Hudson avenue and Locust street, Tuesday noon during the heavy rain storm.

While no blame can be attached to either Mr. Linke or the chauffeur, Mr. Linke's condition is regarded as quite serious and he is at his home, 528 Hudson avenue, suffering intensely from cuts on the head, on both arms, and severe bruises on both lower limbs. His left hand was terribly lacerated.

The chauffeur's story of the accident is to the effect that he was coming south on Hudson avenue at a moderate speed and when he reached the crossing of Locust street he saw a man, whom he afterward recognized as Mr. Linke, lower his umbrella in front of his face and dash directly toward the path of the car, presumably in an effort to cross to the porch of the E. T. Ragg residence for shelter from the storm. The chauffeur claims that he immediately applied the brake to the car and attempted to steer away from Mr. Linke, but that before he could stop, the latter had rushed full speed against the rear left side of the car and was whirled to the street. He immediately arose and rushed to the porch across the street and left for bruises and broken bones.

The chauffeur states that he stopped the car instantly and called to Mr. Linke, asking him if he was hurt, but as he heard no reply, continued to the Carroll dry goods store and Mr. Carroll, whom he was to take home to lunch.

A cab was called and Mr. Linke was taken to his home and Dr. L. N. Palmer and Dr. J. P. H. Stedem were called to attend him. They dressed the external injuries carefully, and conducted a hasty examination for internal affections, but reported that they would be unable to state the full extent of his injuries for a couple of days. Late Wednesday he was reported as resting comfortably as possible under the circumstances.

Mr. Carroll, the owner of the car, stated Wednesday that his chauffeur informed him of the accident, but that he was unable to learn of Mr. Linke's serious injury until last evening.

The shock was, to quite an extent, impaired Mr. Linke's memory of the affair, but it was learned that he had stopped under a tree on the east side of the avenue, out of the heavy rain fall, but that the play of lightning made his position dangerous and he started across to the Rugg residence with his umbrella lowered before his face to protect him from the rain. In his haste to get across the street, it is believed that he failed to see the approaching car in time to slacken his speed.

The umbrella which he carried was demolished, parts of it penetrating and cutting the flesh of his left hand, while his clothing was torn by contact with the car and the fall on the street.

CAMP WELCOME

Wilhelm, July 15.—Everybody is well at present. Bob Dodd and Buddy King are visitors today. Brother Fred Evans is on the water wagon. Joe Stelzer woke up the other morning in the chicken coop. George Stolz's corns are bothering him very much. Dick Boust is sleeping in the trees. Guy Ketter and Snipe Shofelt are cleaning fish for dinner. Theodore Page and Samy Floyd are doing funny stunts around the camp. Doc Walton came down and took all the pictures of the bunch. Tommy Jones takes care of the Gold Fish pond. Verr Ketter is the main gazaboo of the boat house. Doctor Stone was called to attend Joe McDonahue, who had a very bad case of the measles. Everybody is welcome at Camp Welcome.

TIFFIN VS. SANDUSKY.

Kid Koehl pitched a game against the Dayton Clippers Monday which resulted 1 to 0 in favor of Tiffin. The game only went five innings and Dayton secured but one hit and Koehl struck out seven.

Sunday Koehl will pitch against the fast Sandusky Independents who have the record of beating the Cleveland Americans three times last season. Half of the town of Tiffin will accompany the team and several hundred dollars promises to change hands on the result, as the Tiffin fans will back Koehl and their team against any independent team in the state.

The hard rainstorm which visited Newark Tuesday afternoon, was general over the central part of the state and as a result none of the Ohio State league games was played. Mansfield was in the city ready for the fray, but Manager Eells conferred with the Mansfield bunch, and it was agreed to postpone the game and play a double header tomorrow. At the same time, Wednesday was selected for ladies' day.

Mansfield and Newark teams are even on the series thus far. Newark has 9 and Mansfield 9 out of the 18 games played this season. Newark has the greatest number of victories in Newark, having won 6 out of the 9 games played at Wehrle park.

The baseball directors will hold a meeting at Business Manager Maurath's office in the city building tonight. Bills will be allowed and other routine business transacted.

EHMAN MASTERS OVERHAND BALL

Akron has been training for several years to go for the Ehman trophy, but the company not that they want to get rid of the big pitcher, but because they want the honor of defeating the league champion. He has been tried out by Cleveland and Columbus and both times was turned back by these teams.

Buff claims now to have discovered his weakness and he attributes it to his lack of an overhand ball. Accordingly a few weeks ago he set a tour to our this style of delivery in his repertoire and claims to have mastered a good overhand delivery with excellent control.

Buff now believes that he will be able to make good with the next club that drafts him. He was always a masterful pitcher, with a good head and a faculty for taking care of himself. He should make good with almost any club.

CRUDE OIL FOR MARION DIAMOND

Hugh Tate Recommends This Treatment to Lay the Dust and Improve the Field.

Marion, July 15.—The management of the local club is now considering putting crude oil over the playing field at Wehrle park. This is in response to a suggestion by Hugh Tate, The Diamond at Louisville, of the American association league, was put in excellent shape in this manner. The oil will lay the dust and at the same time soften the soil and keep the playing field a trifle soft on top.

Plans for the construction of a large open bleacher on the east side of the gridiron are now in the office of Secretary Steeb. Friday bids for the construction will be closed. When the bid is torn off the football season, the players will have a capital place for play and the people will have a commodious stand from which to watch the fun.

Is he a new bird? No; he is older even than his oldest hen, and she is related to the cock that crew thrice. Is he restricted to any locality? No; he is everywhere. His rooster challenge in Maine is answered by a Shanghai in Porto Rico. His Plymouth Rock's clarion to the sun as it rises from the Atlantic is shouted back by the cocks of Honolulu and Manila bay, where they raise game chickens for religious purposes. You have the back yard fancier in your own town. He is so near that when his hen cackles over a new laid egg it wakens the baby. His roosters crow so loudly on a Sunday morning that you are cheated out of a half day's sleep.

This gentleman of back letters has thus far succeeded in confining the chicken fever to a small area. If it succeeds in reaching the solar plexus, he will soon have a bad case of poultry farm. His stock is "fair to middlin'" and generally provides eggs for the family cakes and custards and an occasional roast for the preacher.

Does poultry pay him? It does. If he makes a little profit, his investment is small, and he can rejoice. If he just makes the feed, he can buy eggs and roasts no cheaper, and his principal has waxed fat. If he falls a little back, he must remember that eggs from his own hens and roasts from his own pens are more delicious and valuable than an unknown quantity.

FEATHERS AND EGGSHELLS.

When you look round for eggs for hatching, don't get the cheap kind.

Too many Canadian chickens are crossing the line to suit some northern fanciers.

California business men are offering inducements to poultrymen to settle in that state. A fine flock of White Leghorns would look mighty pretty in an orange grove.

If you have done your best to get a hatch from that old clatter incubator and only half succeeded, what's the use to try again? Buy a dependable machine and you'll quit swearing.

"I'm dirty, and John's dirty, too," replied a lady when asked the age of herself and husband. In her case she was dirty and yet clean, but some poultrymen are never above being dirty and yet are overdirty.

Pennsylvania raised over 400,000 green ducks in 1907. Old Jeff and the University of Pennsylvania turned out a drove of young green quacks, but they are now outdone. Cornell has established a chair of poultry husbandry. Will Old Jeff and the U. of P. still keep their slow waddle, or have they enough quack specialists?

When strictly fresh eggs are taken to the store the grocer should allow an even trade at the retail price. If the poultryman drops below the retail egg price, then the grocer should lower the price on goods exchanged. No fair dealer will demand two profits. A dog in the manger is bad, a hog in the hen's nest is worse, but a cross of dog and hog in a business deal is a blue ribbon hybrid.

The prevalence of soft corn is affording a problem for farmer, miller, stock raiser and poultryman to worry over. In some states half the corn is moldy. We have saved ours by running it through the power cutter and feeding it cob and all. But where's the corn to come from next summer? The duck men will yell the loudest, but these soft roaster fellows ought to leap for joy.

STRUCK BY AN AUTO

MR. FRANK LINKE MAY BE SERIOUSLY AND PERHAPS INTERNALLY INJURED.

Collides With Carrol Car as He Was Crossing Street Carrying Open Umbrella.

Mr. Frank Linke, manager of the Powers-Miller department store, was seriously, perhaps internally injured in a collision with the touring car belonging to Mr. John J. Carroll, driven by Mr. Carroll's chauffeur, Jack Whiting. The accident happened near the corner of Hudson avenue and Locust street, Tuesday noon during the heavy rain storm.

While no blame can be attached to either Mr. Linke or the chauffeur, Mr. Linke's condition is regarded as quite serious and he is at his home, 528 Hudson avenue, suffering intensely from cuts on the head, on both arms, and severe bruises on both lower limbs. His left hand was terribly lacerated.

The chauffeur's story of the accident is to the effect that he was coming south on Hudson avenue at a moderate speed and when he reached the crossing of Locust street he saw a man, whom he afterward recognized as Mr. Linke, lower his umbrella in front of his face and dash directly toward the path of the car, presumably in an effort to cross to the porch of the E. T. Rugg residence for shelter from the storm. The chauffeur claims that he immediately applied the brake to the car and attempted to steer away from Mr. Linke, but that before he could stop, the latter had rushed full speed against the rear left side of the car and was whirled to the street. He immediately arose and rushed to the porch across the street and felt for bruises and broken bones.

The chauffeur states that he stopped the car instantly and called to Mr. Linke, asking him if he was hurt, but as he heard no reply, continued to the Carroll dry goods store after Mr. Carroll, whom he was to take home to lunch.

A cab was called and Mr. Linke was taken to his home and Dr. I. N. Palmer and Dr. J. P. H. Stedem were called to attend him. They dressed the external injuries carefully, and conducted a hasty examination for internal affections, but reported that they would be unable to state the full extent of his injuries for a couple of days. Late Wednesday he was reported as resting comfortably as possible under the circumstances.

Mr. Carroll, the owner of the car, stated Wednesday that his chauffeur informed him of the accident, but that he was unable to learn of Mr. Linke's serious injury until last evening.

The shock has, to quite an extent, impaired Mr. Linke's memory of the affair, but it was learned that he had stopped under a tree on the east side of the avenue, out of the heavy rain fall, but that the play of lightning made his position dangerous and he started across to the Rugg residence with his umbrella lowered before his face to protect him from the rain. In his haste to get across the street, it is believed that he failed to see the approaching car in time to slacken his speed.

The umbrella which he carried was demolished, parts of it penetrating and cutting the flesh of his left hand, while his clothing was torn by contact with the car and the fall on the street.

The left rear fender of the auto was bent out of shape and a big dent in the left side of the car behind the door, gives evidence of the force of the impact.

CAMP WELCOME

Wilhelm, July 15.—Everybody is well at present. Bob Dodd and Budy King are visitors today. Brother Fred Evans is on the water wagon. Joe Stetler woke up the other morning in the chicken coop. George Stolz' corns are bothering him very much. Dick Donst is sleeping in the trees. Guy Ketner and Snipe Shofelt are cleaning fish for dinner. Theodore Page and Samy Floyd are doing funny stunts around the camp. Doc Walton came down and took all the pictures of the bunch. Tommy Jones takes care of the Gold Fish pond. Verr Ketner is the main gazabon of the boat house. Doctor Stone was called to attend Joe McDonald, who had a very bad case of the measles. Everybody is welcome at Camp Welcome.

TIFFIN VS. SANDUSKY.
Kid Koehl pitched a game against the Dayton Clippers Monday which resulted 1 to 0 in favor of Tiffin. The game only went five innings and Dayton secured but one hit and Koehl struck out seven.

Sunday Koehl will pitch against the fast Sandusky Independents who have the record of beating the Cleveland Americans three times last season. Half of the town of Tiffin will accompany the team and several hundred dollars promises to change hands on the result, as the Tiffin fans will back Koehl and their team against any independent team in the state.

TAX EXEMPTION WITHOUT LAW.

Sometimes changes may be effected through practical arrangements when not provided for by law. We have an illustration of that in my state in regard to the assessment of farm products. The date of assessment has been changed in our state from the first of September to the first of June. For a number of years the assessment date was the first of September; then a number of years ago it was changed back to the first of August, and a few years since it was placed on the first of June. Now you can see the advantage of this date to the farmer. On the first of June, under our law, the lists are supposed to be made up. Every citizen returns his property as of the first of June. The practice and working of that law is to exempt farm products from taxation. On the first of June the farmer has no crops harvested and he simply is taxed on his land. When the next June comes around, his crops have all been disposed of, so he pays no taxes on farm products. The operation of the law, as you will see, is peculiar, because on the first of June the lists are made up not for the tax bills of this year, but for next year. Thus our assessments in Missouri are now being made up as of the first of June. Of course, the farmers returns nothing but his land and his live stock. No crops are in existence. The tax bills are made up this winter and are payable next summer, and thus the result so desired by many persons is practically secured without any exemption under the law. It illustrates how results may sometimes be accomplished outside of the law by a mere adjustment or arrangement of the assessment machinery.—F. N. Judson, Chairman Missouri Tax Commission, Before First National Tax Conference.

PUBLISH TAX LISTS.
On the theory that the public business demands publicity, many localities are now publishing a complete list of taxpayers and their individual assessments. Illinois has used this plan since 1807. Rhode Island requires it in her law. Delaware likewise uses the system to some extent. A few towns in New Hampshire have issued such a publication in neat pamphlet form. Nevada requires this list for every county.—Prof. James E. Boyle, University of North Dakota, Before First National Tax Conference.

Newark friends have just received invitations to the wedding of Mr. Charles A. Lee of Salina, Kas., and Miss Grace Lorena Moses of Great Bend, Kas. The marriage will take place on Wednesday evening, July 29, at 8:20 o'clock at the Great Bend Congregational church. The At Home cards read Salina, Kansas, after October 1st. Mr. Lee holds the responsible position of credit man with the H. D. Lee Mercantile company, the largest wholesale house in Kansas.

What a cinch it would be if our good resolutions were guaranteed not to break.

Some married men are grateful to be even treated like one of the family.

Money-Making Ways of Using Want Ads

To Buy or Sell a Horse

Want to Buy a Riding Horse—a gentle Buggy Horse—a good, substantial Road Horse? Or, perhaps you want to Sell a Horse? To accomplish either desire, use little Want Ads like the ones shown below. These small, silent salesmen are wonders—they Buy and Sell more Horses and Carriages than all other agencies combined. And at a cost so small that it hardly compares with your home milk bill. It's so easy, too. Simply write a few lines saying just what you want and insert under the heading, "Horses" on our Classified Want Ad page. The great Horse Market of this city is the Want columns of this paper. Note the examples below and their cost in this paper.
